All-powerful and ever-living God. Today we pray that you may cast out from our hearts the darkness of sin and bring us to the light of your truth, Jesus Christ, in whom we place our hope in these troubled times. This we ask You through your Son who lives and reigns with you and the Holy Spirit, God for ever and ever.

THE FOUR-WAY TEST

of the things we think, say or do:

1. Is it the TRUTH?
2. Is it FAIR to all concerned?
3. Will it build GOODWILL and BETTER FRIENDSHIPS?
4. Will it be BENEFICIAL to all concerned?

Object of Rotary

The Object of Rotary is to encourage and foster the ideal of service as a basis of worthy enterprise and, in particular, to encourage and foster:

- First : The development of acquaintance as an opportunity for Service;
- Second : High Ethical standards in business and professions; the Recognition of the worthiness of all useful occupations; and the dignifying of each Rotarian's occupation as an opportunity to serve society;
- Third : The application of the ideal of service in each Rotarian's personal, business and community life;
- Fourth : The advancement of international understanding, goodwill, and peace through a world fellowship of business and professional persons united in the ideal of service.

(Lyric adaptation by PP Peter Javier)

From the President

Pres. Garrick Ang

Good afternoon, Pasig Rotarians!

Hope and pray that everyone stays safe and healthy, special prayers for PP Ed Lucero.

The second round of ECQ Ayuda was distributed to our adopted community last Saturday, August 21, 2021 in GK Village in Sitio Caliwag, Pinagbuhatan, Pasig.

We also distributed the ECQ Ayuda to our Luxid-Rotary Microfinance and Credit Cooperative members.

Thanks to our hard-working Membership Committee headed by Chairman Adolf Aran, which has now built a pipeline to bring us back to a century club again. Good job and keep it coming and each one, bring one!

From the President

Pres. Garrick Ang

Continuation 1.

This afternoon, we will have a very interesting group of speakers from the International Coaching Federation – Philippines. Headed by Ms. Anda Goseco, she and her team will present to us their social responsibility program for the small businessman of Pasig City.

Thank you.

On the 50th year of the ENDURING Rotary Club of Pasig, I remain..

Truly yours,

Garrick

Rotary Notes

PP Benny P. De Guzman

The Noblemen of Pasig became a good forum of ideas and from there many projects would be coming out. In fact, the first major initial project of Pangkat 2 Head Bart came from Pangkat member Chony and substance was injected by another Pangkat member, Rtn Flor. Flor is PRID Raffy-like when being a generous funder of good undertakings. The PNP project brought another worthwhile community project, not new but worth pursuing annually – blood letting. HOF/PP Jess would love this as blood transfusion is a major factor in his operating tables.

And speaking of money maker Jess, in his expansion, he had an old building that he spare. He got a good price and it helped two of our members in acquiring the same. Nabenta na, nakasosoyo pa. You don't learn that in MBA. Only in Rotary.

Our speaker last week, Ms. Flor Tarriela is well known to our many members. Not as undersecretary of finance during the term of Erap but in many banking deals. Buen familia both sides of parents from Malabon. Her interest in plants made her excel in this area. The husband, also from UP won a major award from the university not in the field of law where he is well exposed but in a field like the interest of lovely Flor. Ed and I were presidents of our respective clubs when the district was yet District 380.

The Covid menace is not leaving. Per PP Peter it is growing faster even. The strain is also increasing and is very dominant. Nakaabot na sa Lambda variety. Before you can do the lambada, dead ka na.

On the Topaz St. road cracks, a Nobleman said PP Celso is a member of the board of Ortigas Center Association. He is the chair.

Rotary Notes

Continuation 1.

From the start, he was not an ordinary member. In our Rotary club as well. Even now, he is a center figure that there was a text to fine those who sought legal service in practically all aspects.

The street Topaz should be renamed Topax. If it does not end in Z and Y will give it more meaning. X, as entry for the meantime and then it will be like brand new.

The T-shirt given by CLP Garrick is so nice and the fit is very good that even if I did not send my size, it fits like a condom. Like a condom too, very important to wear to build your confidence.

It is interesting to point out what Rtn Roehl mentioned. Since PP Celso is an expert of intellectual properties and patents, there must be some points worth exploring as obviously, the work of Roehl then did not include the study of other means to improve their system. And in being recognized as an author or inventor,. Can he not write Globe a letter asking for an honorarium for using his work or invention or any achievement? When the legal would answer the patent or rights have been awarded to them, it is the start of questioning the Patent Office that it was Roehl who made that. I think there is an entry point. Just a view from outside the Noblemen's group.

CELEBRATE ROTARACT: STRENGTH IN NUMBERS

The call went out from New Zealand, and Rotaractors in places as far away as Denmark, Jamaica, Mexico, and Uganda answered. Over 30 days in October and November, they took part in relay races, practiced yoga on the beach, danced, and did pushup and squat challenges, raising awareness — and about NZ$7,000 — for a project to vaccinate 100,000 children in nine countries and territories against three deadly pathogens.

“They were inspired by our story to say, ‘We want to be involved in this. We want to help see these illnesses erased,’” says Becky Giblin, a member of the Rotaract Club of Auckland City, New Zealand.

The goal of Give Every Child a Future (GECF), a project organized by Rotary clubs in New Zealand and Australia, is to vaccinate every child in nine Pacific countries and territories against rotavirus, pneumococcal bacteria, and human papillomavirus (HPV). Rotavirus and pneumococcal bacteria vaccinations can reduce illness and deaths from gastroenteritis, pneumonia, meningitis, and bacteremia. For adolescent girls, HPV vaccination can prevent cervical cancer later in life.

The World Health Organization reports that diarrhea and pneumonia are leading causes of death in children under five. And in the Cook Islands, Kiribati, Nauru, Niue, Samoa, Tokelau, Tonga, Tuvalu, and Vanuatu, where cervical cancer rates are high, “they don’t have the treatments we do in the U.S., Australia, and New Zealand,” says Jackie Hinchcliff, a member of the Rotary Club of Auckland who is spearheading the vaccination effort.

Walking the Avenues

PP Jun C. Zafra

Continuation 1.

Hinchcliff was impressed by the Rotaractors' commitment to the project, noting that the idea to get involved came from them. "I think what they've done is absolutely amazing. And they weren't approached by our committee or anything like that. It wasn't like we said, 'Hey, you need to do this.' This was a grassroots project that pulled at their hearts. And they said, 'This is what we want to do.'"

The vaccination project, which has received an additional NZ$4,000 in corporate grants because of the Rotaractors' efforts, also commemorates 100 years of Rotary in Australia and New Zealand, an anniversary being celebrated in 2021. The Rotaractors organized Move for GECAF, a campaign encouraging physical activities to create buzz on social media for the vaccination effort. By sharing photos and videos of their physical feats on social media, Rotaractors amplified their message about the need for vaccines and exemplified how they are reaching across clubs and borders to connect with one another and support each other's projects. Those efforts were accelerated by COVID-19 lockdowns that prompted many clubs to meet and discuss their goals via social media and Zoom.

As in New Zealand, Rotaractors in countries including Brazil, Germany, India, and Turkey also have mobilized the Rotaract network in support of projects. One example is the Treaty of Generations, a Rotaract initiative to reforest the world. The tree-planting mission was started in March 2020 by the Rotaract Club of Nürtingen, Germany, which is working with two partner clubs, the Rotaract Club of M.O.P. Vaishnav, India, and the Rotaract Club of Cumbayá, Ecuador.

Walking the Avenues

PP Jun C. Zafra

Continuation 2.

“We motivate clubs around the world to plant trees in cleared areas, and we provide them with everything they need,” says Nürtingen Rotaractor Dominik Huhndorf. So far, about 2,000 trees have been planted in countries including Germany, Ecuador, India, Mauritius, and Sierra Leone.

A compelling need and an effective solution — like creating a more green and sustainable world by planting trees — will help attract other clubs’ interest, Huhndorf says, and social media is a good way to find partners. “Club websites, and social media like Instagram, are good platforms for determining whether the interests of a club fit those of your project,” he says.

He believes any well-thought-out project will find support. “All you need for a collaboration is a good, rational, solid concept, and high motivation to get it done,” he says.

Rotaractors in District 2420 in Turkey, meanwhile, have been reaching out to other clubs to expand an ongoing project. For more than five years, they have been working to increase awareness of the importance of self-exams and of early detection to fight breast cancer within their district. In 2019, the Rotaractors decided to expand the project and are now cooperating with 13 Rotaract clubs in Turkey as well as two clubs in Ghana and Brazil.

In October 2019, the Rotaractors conducted four seminars that reached 397 people with information about the importance of self-exams. They also provided information to 256 people using a breast model and brochures.

Expanding their project’s reach had its challenges, says Burak Kucuk, a member of the Rotaract Club of Istanbul-Sisli and the District 2420 Rotaract representative for 2019-20. “It took work to find our partners in the project and learn how to work with them. We missed opportunities to partner with other big institutions and NGOs because we reached out late. We had to work hard to contact the right people and achieve our goals. We put in a lot of effort to overcome this challenge.”

But they learned some important lessons along the way. “This project showed us that we are very strong together,” says Kucuk, who notes that Rotaract multidistrict information organizations (MDIOs) are a good way to connect with country representatives in other countries.

In India, Rotaractors were involved in 2020 in what they called the Mega Cloth Donation Drive sponsored by their regional MDIO, the South East Asian Rotaract Information Center (SEARIC). They partnered with Yes Bank, a local banking institution. “Diwali, one of the biggest festivals of India, was just around the corner and we wanted everyone to be in clean clothes for the day,” says Srijita Neogy of the Rotaract Club of Calcutta. “Heaps of clothes were donated and collected at the Yes Bank branches across the country. The closest Rotaract clubs and bank branches were mapped. Rotaractors then collected the clothes from the branches and donated them in areas with people most in need.”

Rotaractors have long come together for fellowship as well as for projects. When the pandemic hit, many met up virtually through World of Rotaract, a social media initiative that includes a Zoom meet-ing space where members from across the globe have been able to hang out, play games, host speakers, organize parties, and share experiences of COVID-19 in their own countries.

Walking the Avenues

PP Jun C. Zafra

Continuation 4.

The Zoom meeting space also allowed Rotaractors to share ideas and promote their projects. Move for GECAF in New Zealand got a boost from the platform's worldwide reach. "World of Rotaract was an incredible network for us to put our message out there," Giblin says.

Philip Flindt, president of the Rotaract Club of København Nord, Denmark, agrees. "World of Rotaract created the foundations for lots of international friendships," he says. "Even though I've never met Becky [Giblin] in real life, I have talked to her for hours, serious talk, as well as joking around, and she is a dear friend now."

So when Giblin asked for help with Move for GECAF, Flindt didn't hesitate to rally members of his club to run in a park to support the vaccine project; the club raised about NZ$2,500. "Becky's call was an opportunity for us to show how much Rotaractors can make happen in a short time," he says, "and how Rotaractors and Rotarians can support each other in their projects."
